

Motivators

An Evaluation of Motivational Styles

Report For: [REDACTED]

Date: 11/7/2020

DEMO USE ONLY

Table of Contents

About This Report	3
Seven Dimensions of Motivation	3
A Closer Look at the Dimensions	4
Summary of Motivation	5
Details of Motivation	6
Motivator Word Matrix	7
Your Aesthetic Motivator.....	8
Your Economic Motivator	9
Your Individualistic Motivator.....	10
Your Power Motivator	11
Your Altruistic Motivator	12
Your Regulatory Motivator	13
Your Theoretical Motivator	14
Motivators Adaptability.....	15
Guidelines for Application	16
Action Plan	17
So, Now What?	18

Why is Independently Tested Accuracy of this Assessment Important?

A recent review revealed a significant majority of assessments available today were absent the studies & reporting to confirm their accuracy. Of the small minority which claimed reporting, the significant majority of those were conducted privately; oftentimes by the assessment provider itself, rather than an objective and scientifically qualified third party. However, we are leading by example in this otherwise unregulated industry. How are we doing this? By submitting our assessments to an objective, independently conducted battery of tests: Construct Validity, Reliability, and Disparate Impact - all by a qualified scientific authority (Assessment Standards Institute). Our goal? Ensuring the trust and confidence of our users by producing the industry’s most accurate and class protected assessments. Please turn to the last page of this report to learn more on this topic, and the steps we’ve taken to safeguard the scientific accuracy of this assessment.

About This Report

Research shows that the most successful people share the common trait of self-awareness. They're able to more quickly recognize situations that will make them more successful. As such, it's easier for them to find ways of achieving objectives that resonate and align with their motivations. Those who understand their natural motivators better are far more likely to pursue the right opportunities, for the right reasons, and get the results they desire.

Motivation helps influence behavior and action. It is vital for superior performance to ensure that your motivations are satisfied by what you do to drive your passion, reduce fatigue, and inspire you.

The Motivators assessment is the result of Dr. Eduard Spranger's and Gordon Allport's combined research into what drives and motivates an individual. The dimensions of value discovered between these two researchers identify the reasons that drive an individual to utilize their talents in the unique way they do. These pages will help you understand your motivations and drivers, providing a clear course on how to maximize your performance by achieving better alignment with your passion for what you do and your behavior.

The Elements of the Motivation Index

This Motivation Index is unique to the marketplace in that it examines seven independent and unique aspects of motivation. Most similar instruments only examine six dimensions of motivation by combining the Individualistic and Power into one dimension. This assessment remains true to the original works and models of two of the most significant researchers in this field, thus delivering to you a profile that truly helps you understand your own unique drivers.

The Seven Dimensions of Motivation measured in this report are:

-  Aesthetic - A drive for balance, harmony and form.
-  Economic - A drive for a return on investment.
-  Individualistic - A drive to stand out as independent and unique.
-  Power - A drive to be in control or have influence.
-  Altruistic - A drive to help others at the expense of self.
-  Regulatory - A drive to establish order, routine and structure.
-  Theoretical - A drive for knowledge, learning and understanding.

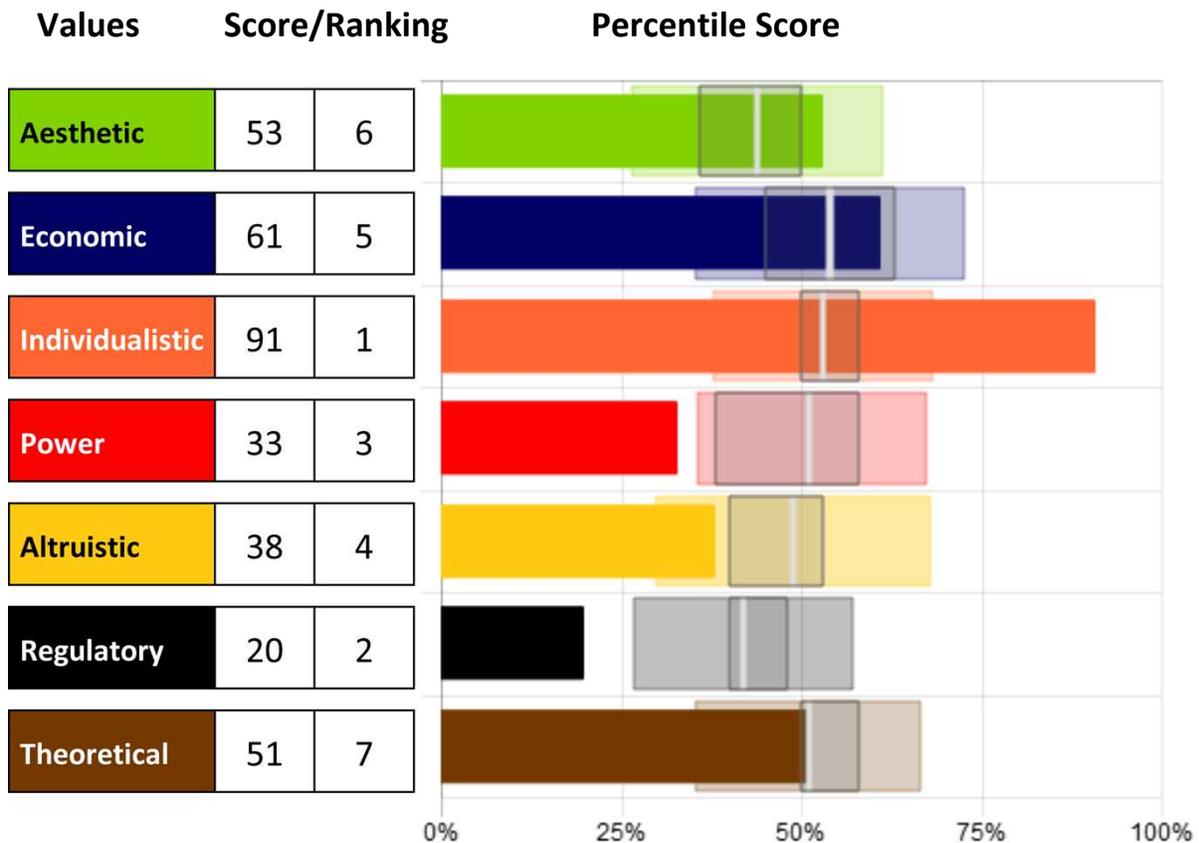

A Closer Look at the Seven Dimension Scores

Each descriptor below reveals your preference for shaping behavior and indicates what energizes you.

Motivator	Low Score Energized by...	High Score Energized by...
Aesthetic	Grounded Pragmatic and tangible approaches that bring concrete and reliable results.	Eccentric Achieving equilibrium and harmony between the world around you and yourself.
Economic	Satisfied Less competitive approaches and being more satisfied with what you already have.	Self-Mastered Self-interest, economic gains, and achieving real-world returns on efforts.
Individualistic	Secure Not seeking the limelight, keeping ideas to yourself, and less likelihood of self-promotion.	Unrestricted Expressing your autonomy and freedom from others' ideas and protocols.
Power	Submissive Supporting other people's efforts and a less focused approach to owning your own personal space.	Domineering Directing and controlling people, environments, and personal spaces.
Altruistic	Self-Focused Focusing on personal wants and needs and taking a more suspicious stance towards the moves of others.	Pushover Helping and eliminating pain and suffering of others at personal cost.
Regulatory	Defiant Remaining independent of as opposed to depending on the restrictive ideas of others.	Black & White Establishing routine, order, and setting boundaries for yourself and others.
Theoretical	Disinterested A more dismissive view of gathering new information and discovery while relying more on your natural instincts and past experiences for answers.	Scholarly Activities towards knowing everything that can be known about what you believe to be important and truthful.

Summary of Jure's Motivation

1. The lightly colored, shaded area for each Motivator highlights the majority of the population's scores. This means that if you took a normal sample of motivator scores and ranked the scores from 0 – 100, you can expect that a majority of the scores would fall inside the shaded area. This indicates if most of the population scores higher or lower in the dimension. Are you similarly driven in your Motivators as most others are?
2. The norm box (small box plot) represents the AVERAGE scoring range. The scores inside this box represent the scores of people who are more like everyone else (therefore, it is considered normal). When your score falls inside the norm box, it is situational; you consistently ranked the statements of that dimension both high and low.
3. The white vertical line in the center of the colored, shaded box represents the median score. Like the median in a road, the median divides the range of scores into equal halves. 50% of the scores are above the median line and 50% of the scores fall below the median line.
4. The colored bar is aligned to your score from 1-100. These reveal the level of importance of that motivator to you. Higher numbers mean you consistently ranked the motivator as more important & lower numbers mean the motivator was consistently ranked less important. The number also reveals placement in Very Low, Low, Average, High and Very High. The people who score within each group share common traits and descriptions (i.e. those who have Very Low scores will share common values with one another).
5. Your ranking reveals how influential the Motivators are to your behavior and decisions in order from 1-7. Keep in mind that some Motivators have relationships with other Motivators that strengthen them, but this is a true 1 through 7 ranking based on which are individually most impactful.

Details of Jure's Motivation

Aesthetic - High

You will likely possess an “inner awareness” and will desire to understand the moods, affections, and values of yourself and others.

Economic - Average

You will balance yourself between being satisfied with what you have and a need for more.

Individualistic - Very High

You will seek independence, freedom, and positions of autonomy where you can freely express and display your intuitive ideas.

Power - Very Low

You don't need to be behind the wheel and won't mind yielding your position to avoid controversy.

Altruistic - Low

You will make sure you position yourself, so you don't get burned when working closely with others.

Regulatory - Low

You believe there's always another way when the current situation changes or roadblocks are apparent.

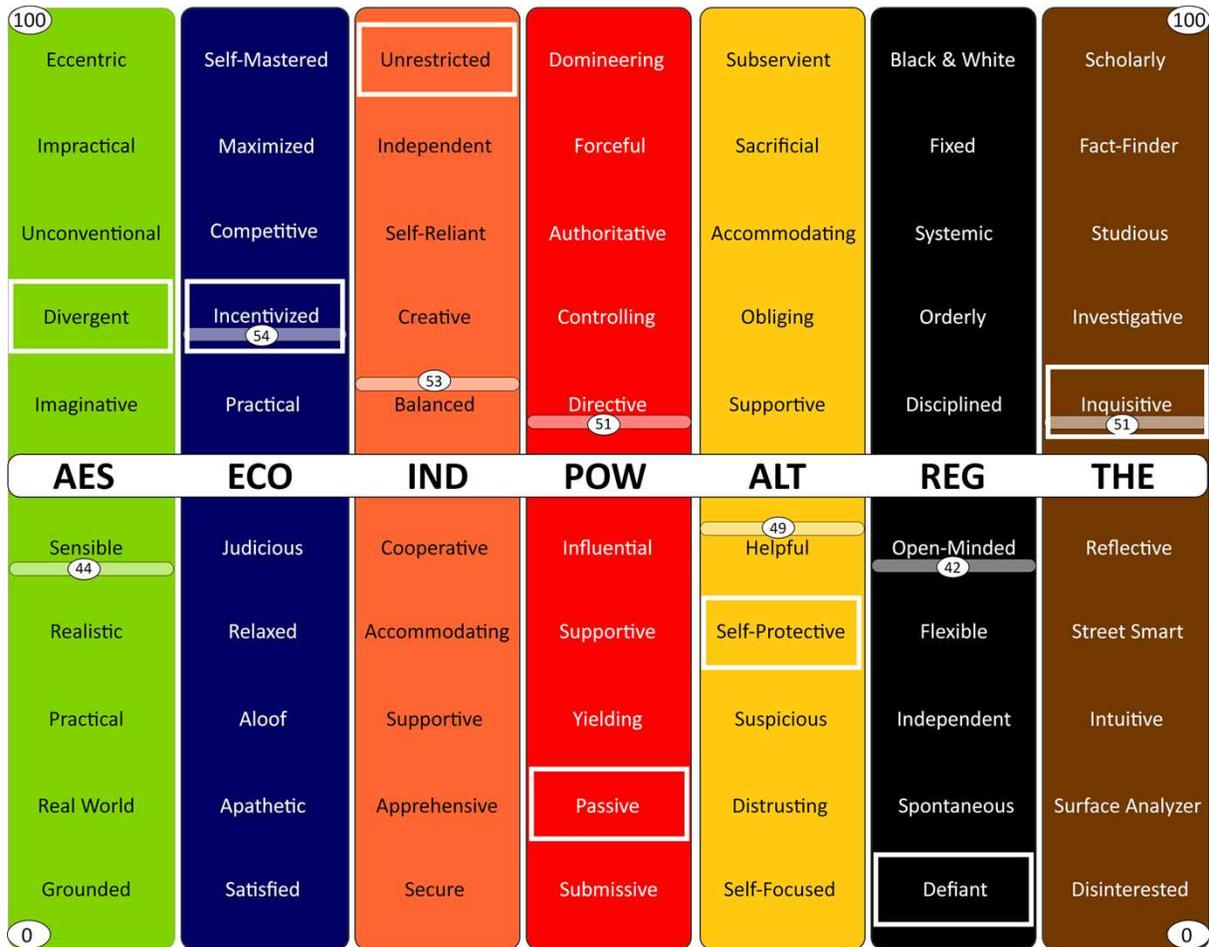

Theoretical - Average

You can rely on both new information and what has worked in the past when making decisions.

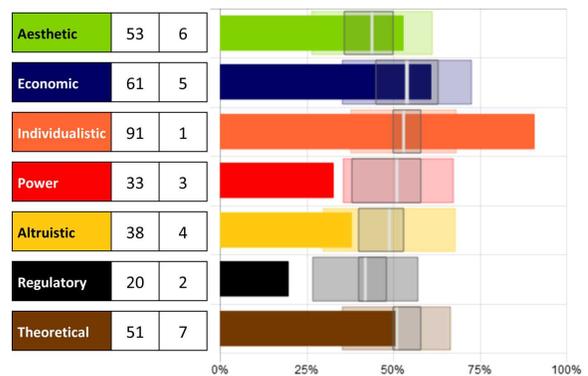

Motivator Word Matrix

The Motivator Word Matrix translates your numeric score into a descriptor in each dimension, and highlights each word relative to other descriptors. By labeling your numeric score, you can better identify, understand, and describe your motivator orientation.

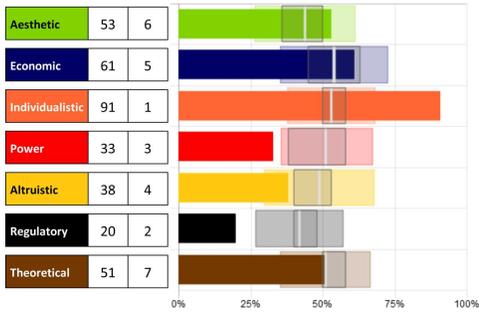

Important Details:

- Motivators are scored from 0-100, shown in small circles at the edges of the Matrix: 0 is very low, 100 is very high.
- The shaded line highlights the median score for each Motivator based on the population.
- The highlighted Motivator descriptor is representative of your score in each Motivator.
- Your score and ranking are not noted on the Matrix. Refer to your graph for your specific information.

Your Aesthetic Motivator - High

The Aesthetic Motivator: Strong desire and need to achieve equilibrium between the world around us and ourselves (within) while creating a sustainable work/life balance between the two. Creative, imaginative, artsy, mystical and expressive, this style may redefine or resist real world approaches to current challenges.

Universal Assets:

- You are more sensitive and intuitive to issues others may have a hard time pinpointing.
- You work better in surroundings that are pleasant aesthetically or environmentally responsible.
- You prefer an enjoyable and meaningful work environment that makes your soul feel inspired.
- You will really appreciate things and places purely for their intrinsic value rather than any status reasons.

Driving Intuitions:

- You bring unconventional thinking to the table. Make sure you aren't afraid to share your intuitive insights.
- You likely have a keen awareness of harm, care, fairness, and reciprocity toward people and animals.
- You will work to live rather than live to work.
- You show an interest in the deeper meaning of ordinary things.

Critical Advantages:

- You show the aptitude to see beyond the common, and may bring a refreshing unconventionality to those around you.
- You likely think beyond yourself in regards to work and will seek balance between yourself and your surroundings.
- You will attempt to solve practical problems in unconventional ways.
- You don't just go to work; you're usually on a mission.

Growth Opportunities:

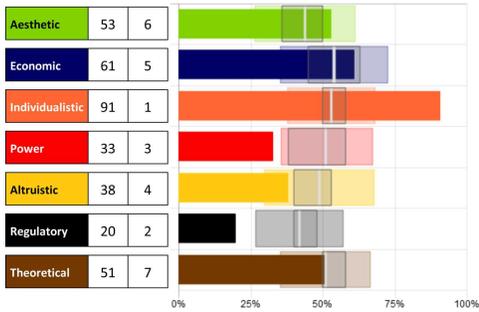

- You could be using creative and complicated ideas as a safety blanket to avoid having to be overly pragmatic.
- Don't deliver a Cadillac when a Chevy will suffice.
- You could benefit from being a little more realistic.
- It's OK that some don't understand and appreciate your passion and creativity as much as you do.

Learning Paths:

- You have the ability to connect training and development to people's creativity and intuition.
- You can assist teams in seeing beyond the present and thinking outside the box.
- As you learn new things, link them to your ability to see beyond the present and your unorthodox ideas.
- You combine new knowledge with creativity to achieve greater harmony and balance in work and life.

Your Economic Motivator - Average

The Economic Motivator: The motivation for security from self-interest, economic gains, and achieving real-world returns on personal ventures, personal resources, and focused energy. The preferred approach of this motivator is both a personal and a professional one with a focus on ultimate outcomes.

Universal Assets:

- You are realistic and down-to-earth in regards to getting what you believe you deserve.
- Your score indicates that there would be no excessive need to win when engaging with others.
- You may have already achieved substantial economic goals of your own.
- You have the ability to identify with individuals who have both high and low satisfaction rates.

Driving Intuitions:

- You are likely not bent on having to win in everything.
- You're an asset when it comes to getting along with both practical and imaginative types.
- You are comfortably poised between what's in it for you and what's in it for them.
- You are not an extremist when it comes to incentives.

Critical Advantages:

- You can balance the needs and perspectives of those with different attitudes towards financial gain.
- You're fine with helping others with their projects and initiatives without experiencing to "get yours."
- You are not an extremist and, therefore, a stabilizing force when winning is required.
- You are likely motivated by more than just personal gain.

Growth Opportunities:

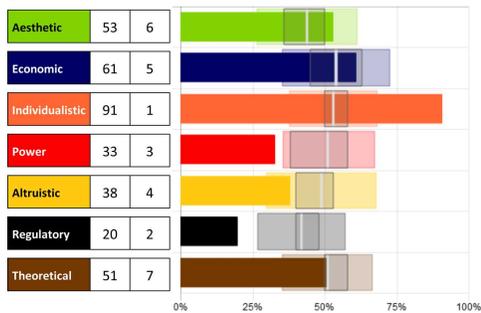

- At times you may need to be more aware of time constraints.
- Because you work to live as opposed to living to work, you could be missing out on greater opportunities.
- You should think about where you'll be in five years and if your current path will get you there.
- You should think about your financial future with stronger urgency.

Learning Paths:

- You may engage in training and development activities in a balanced and supportive method.
- There are times when you need to put your foot down when team members lack incentive.
- You should work with those who are not so concerned about leveraging their best interests.
- You can focus both on the ambitious and those who are content where they are.

Your Individualistic Motivator - Very High

The Individualistic Motivator: Need to be seen as autonomous, unique, independent, and to stand apart from the crowd. This is the drive to be socially independent and have opportunity for freedom of personal expression apart from being told what to do.

Universal Assets:

- You really enjoy doing your own thing your own way.
- You will seek your own personal niche where you can be seen as unbelievable.
- You may be very different, but not always valuable when it comes to creative ideas.
- You'll likely take the necessary risks depending upon your appetite for jumping off the cliff and building your wings on the way down.

Driving Intuitions:

- You need the freedom and autonomy to bring your ideas to a conclusion.
- You may have expanded on current ideas and need to be aware that unless you push for them, they'll go unnoticed.
- You must realize you don't do things in the standard, traditional way.
- Many times your style thinks outside the box, but you may keep it to yourself if you're the quiet type.

Critical Advantages:

- You will project self-confidence even if you really don't have any.
- Your energy and expressive intuition enables you to think like MacGyver.
- You will have a variety of outstanding ideas to choose.
- Your ideas are likely to be forced to the forefront because of your need to be seen as unique.

Growth Opportunities:

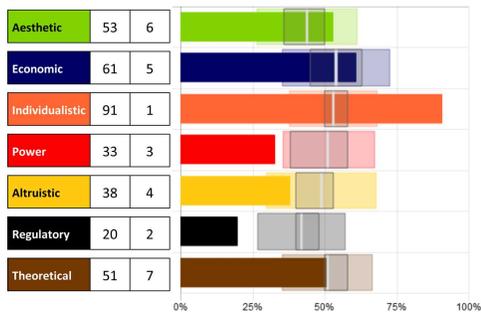

- Your potential value can clash with realistic people who think in only real-world terms.
- You may get caught up in selling yourself instead of your idea.
- Sometimes your extremely exclusive process isn't the most effective or efficient means to an end.
- Sometimes innovation isn't the answer when existing processes will do.

Learning Paths:

- You need hyper flexibility and freedom to create when learning new things.
- You'll create an environment that encourages organic thinking.
- You must link the benefits of learning new things to your personal ability to recreate new ways of doing things.
- You need a wide variety of options available to you.

Your Power Motivator - Very Low

The Power Motivator: Being seen as a leader, while having influence and control over one's environment and success. Competitiveness and control are often associated with those scoring higher in this motivational dimension.

Universal Assets:

- You'll likely want to watch others lead more than you'll want to lead things yourself.
- You may be more of a maintainer than you are an obtainer.
- You won't want all the responsibility that comes with being in charge.
- You will excel when in situations that require a maintenance mindset over high drive.

Driving Intuitions:

- You won't need to ask for input once decisions are final and people have moved on.
- Don't say yes to things you don't really want to do.
- Use your stabilizing ability when working with others and don't allow others to run you over.
- Just because people don't voice it, don't believe you haven't made a difference.

Critical Advantages:

- You're a better helper and won't expect credit for all you do.
- You will likely wait your turn and not jump to the front.
- You won't likely drive, but will be happy to chat in the back seat.
- Personal accomplishments far outweigh the need for recognition and power.

Growth Opportunities:

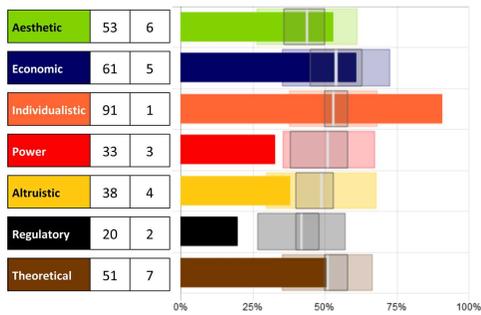

- You may be settling for less as opposed to fighting for what you want.
- You might second-guess your own ideas and therefore hang back.
- You will likely be a target for aggressive people who may want to take advantage of your willingness to help.
- You may be allowing other people to frame your world.

Learning Paths:

- Being forceful and determined isn't always bad.
- You will likely enjoy group activities.
- You will likely be quiet and in the background when involved in training activities.
- You may need to take stronger initiative when working with dominant types.

Your Altruistic Motivator - Low

The Altruistic Motivator: An expression of the need or energy to benefit others at the expense of self. At times, there's genuine sincerity in this dimension to help others, but not always. Oftentimes an intense level within this dimension is more associated with low self-worth.

Universal Assets:

- You will prefer going it alone at times.
- You will likely be determined in chaos.
- You will not likely be moved by emotional appeals or sad faces.
- You probably have low tolerance for people who complain and whine about their problems.

Driving Intuitions:

- You connect all outcomes to practical needs as opposed to people needs.
- You respond better to logic and reason and will likely rebuff touchy-feely approaches.
- Because you will gravitate towards independence when working, schedule time for independent activities.
- Your no-nonsense approach could be taken wrong by the more sociable styles.

Critical Advantages:

- You will likely be able to separate your emotions from necessary actions.
- You have little to no patience for ignorance.
- You will be difficult to take advantage of in business.
- You will likely avoid what you think are "stupid" people if you're highly cognitive.

Growth Opportunities:

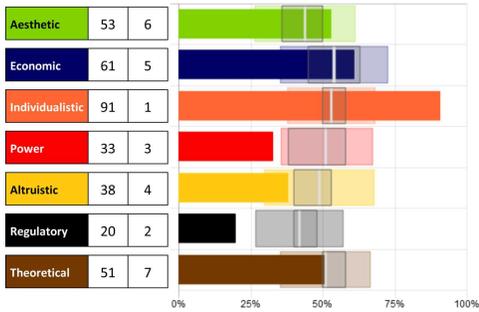

- Because you have little patience for stupidity, make sure the person is trying before passing judgment.
- Remember that helping others helps you as well.
- Some may think you are selfish and self-absorbed.
- You might be avoided by emotional "feeler" types especially if you're not a people person.

Learning Paths:

- You may likely be quiet and in the background when involved in training activities.
- Be aware of your no-nonsense approach to other people.
- Being forceful isn't bad, but sometimes it scares people if it's too strong.
- You may not feel at home when working emotionally with teams.

Your Regulatory Motivator - Low

The Regulatory Motivator: A need to establish order, routine and structure. This motivation is to promote a black and white mindset and a traditional approach to problems and challenges through standards, rules, and protocols to color within the lines.

Universal Assets:

- You likely have many questions and will do whatever it takes to get them answered.
- You will more or less march to the beat of your own drum.
- There's always another way to do it in your mind.
- You will not like being constrained or restricted to certain protocols.

Driving Intuitions:

- You do not support inefficient means to any end.
- Your spontaneity works for you, but it won't work for everyone.
- Play to your strengths, which are rooted in freedom, flexibility, and open-mindedness.
- You want open and honest feedback so you can do what needs to be done.

Critical Advantages:

- There's always another way when the current situation changes.
- You likely don't want to wait for permission to do things you believe need to be done.
- Your imagination is active.
- You likely believe the end justify the means.

Growth Opportunities:

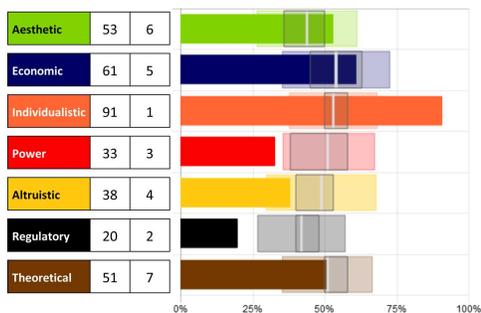

- Remember, patience is a virtue.
- Not all rules can be broken.
- You need to realize that obeying sometimes keeps you safe.
- Your lack of systemic sequence can get you in trouble sometimes.

Learning Paths:

- You can be a part of something without being controlled by it.
- You work independently even when you are on a team.
- You're likely thinking, "That's not how I'd do it."
- You prefer multiple learning modalities that enable your creative side.

Your Theoretical Motivator - Average

The Theoretical Motivator: The desire to uncover, discover, and recover the "truth." This need to gain knowledge for knowledge sake is the result of an "itchy" brain. Rational thinking, reasoning and problem solving are important to this dimension. This is all about the "need" to know why.

Universal Assets:

- You are more of a broad-minded person and less a detailed person when it comes to finding out why.
- You will likely learn what you need to learn in order to get to the next step.
- You can just figure things out and get to the bottom of it without having to study too much.
- You won't likely stand out in any particular group when it comes to your knowledge bank.

Driving Intuitions:

- Your curiosity can be peaked if something interests you.
- You bring continuity and structure to groups where thinking is necessary without getting too distracted.
- You have a balanced view of technical issues and won't want to get too deeply involved in things outside of your expertise.
- You have an even perspective, able to weigh both sides of an issue equally.

Critical Advantages:

- You can be both practical and theoretical depending on the subject matter.
- You will be versed in a variety of subjects that you care about.
- You are curious to a point.
- You won't blindly do things without at least some investigation.

Growth Opportunities:

- You may be done with your continuing education and will learn through experience.
- You read some things, but not everything.
- You won't likely finish certain books that don't fully interest you.
- You may need to become more versed in certain subjects in order to increase value.

Learning Paths:

- Your knowledge won't get in the way of your social poise.
- You will likely get behind programs that are enjoyable and speak to what you already know.
- You won't want too much information when learning new things.
- You will typically settle upon ways that have been established and proven effective.

MOTIVATORS ADAPTABILITY

Adapting to another’s Motivational preference can be quite difficult! Sometimes Motivations are not readily observable, or may be disguised in behavior that doesn’t align to them. A key way to understand another’s Motivations is to pay attention to the things they value, the way they speak, and where they spend their time and attention (or other resources). What do you see that drives them? You can use some of these questions to guide your discovery; you may ask them or just observe. Once you know someone’s Motivators, you can interact with them in a more effective way.

Aesthetic 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is beautiful to you? • How important is it for you that you can express yourself creatively? • Are form and aesthetics more important, or is functionality more important? • How important is work/life balance? • Do you find that you are more “head in the clouds” or more practical?
Economic 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How important is winning for you? • What is a reasonable return on investment? • Do you generally think people have an agenda or want/need something from you? • Would you consider starting your own business or being an entrepreneur? • When you are faced with a situation do you first consider how it will affect you, or how it will affect others?
Individualistic 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How important is it for you to be independent and autonomous? • If you could do anything you wanted today, what would it be? • Do you think people generally see the world the same way you do? • How do you feel about teamwork and collaboration? • What does “freedom” mean to you?
Power 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What role do you typically take in a group? • How important is it for you to be in charge? • How would you motivate others to take action? • What kinds of things do you like to have control over? • Do you take initiative, or do you prefer direction before acting?
Altruistic 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Do you have a hard time saying no, or feel overwhelmed and spread too thin? • What is considered a reasonable amount of assistance or help for others? • Would you more likely give to anyone who needs it, or only to those who deserve it? • Do you tend to sacrifice your needs for the needs of others? • Do you feel like you need to do things for others to be valuable or loved?
Regulatory 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Is there a right way and a wrong way, or many ways to accomplish something? • How important is it for you to be right? • Are rules and regulations important to you? • How important is structure and process to you? • When you solve problems, do you prefer the tried and true approach or are you more flexible and open to options?
Theoretical 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How important is it to understand all perspectives and details of a project/problem? • Do you consider yourself to be an expert in any field? • Would you rather spend time studying and reading, or just learn as you go? • What do you love about learning new things? • What do you think is most important – action or knowledge?

Guidelines to help you

1. The scores in this report are a snapshot in time. These scores represent your preferences (desires, such as being in control or not) at the time you completed the survey. These are not lifelong motivators from which you have no choice or power to influence.
2. There are no good or bad scores to have, but there are consequences. If you do not like the level of effort you feel toward your goals, how you are behaving toward others or how others are behaving toward you, you can influence them through intended behavior and emotions (with DISC).
3. The key is to understand your motivational preferences so you can move with the situation to encourage your own awareness, intentionality and growth.

What works?

- Decide what level of effort and intensity (energy) you want to use moving forward.
- Pick one simple behavior to focus on such as how long you take to think through a problem or how you endeavor to get what you need from someone.
- Make it easier to use your motivational orientation you have right now, rather than finding a greater or a more difficult motivational element.
- It is important to develop a practical understanding of your own motivational orientation, so you do not trick yourself into feeling you lack motivation. We are all motivated, but we may lack the “energy” (see your DISC graph) for the process of getting what we want.

What is proven not to work?

- Not starting or giving up. The way to get unstuck is not becoming extreme by exaggerating your efforts or stopping them altogether. Try doing something small and then look at the evidence.
- Getting too much information. Information may help to change your attitude and intention, but information alone does not work well to change your behaviors. Action is key.
- Wanting to get better at something is easy. Sticking with small changes is a different story.
- Avoid pursuing “ideal motivational activities or work.” Instead, improve your pursuit of vital work/activities using your natural motivational orientation within this report.

Tiny Steps, Big Results Plan

You are only a few behaviors away from making progress.

Where do I currently excel at work and what motivators are in play already?

Which motivators don't need any additional attention?

With which motivators am I currently struggling and need an extra boost?

Using my understanding of my motivational orientation, which types of additional motivations would work best for me right now?

Using my understanding of my motivational orientation, which types of additional motivations would not work for me right now?

Choose one harmful influence on your motivational orientation (take in small steps) to act on today. Then, practice and repeat.

Choose one positive influences on your motivational orientation (take in small steps) to act on today. Then, practice and repeat

We all are motivated to get better but we get stuck with the process we must go through to move toward what we want. How can I make the process of making progress smaller and simpler? List up to three (3).

So Now What?

This report is filled with information about your seven independent and unique aspects of motivation. You have a profile that truly helps you understand your own unique motivations and drivers and many suggestions in each of the seven motivators sections of this report, particularly the Growth Opportunities, for you to apply this valuable information.

Take the next step and begin with the actions outlined to make improvements in the specific motivator sections most important to you and your success. Do not put this report on a shelf or in a file. Use this report as a reference tool. There is a lot of information in it and it is not meant to be digested in just one reading.

(continued from page 2)

How to Assure Assessment Accuracy? Independent & Qualified Testing at Standards Set by the APA and EEOC

“...we applaud your efforts at making Motivators reliable and valid...” - Assessment Standards Institute

The Assessment Industry’s Past and Present

Assessments have been used since the mid-20th century, initially relied upon by Fortune 500s, calculated by highly skilled PhDs and produced by only a handful of trusted developers. With the advent of the internet in the 1990s, the ability to produce, market, and sell assessments became exponentially easier and less expensive. Since then, it has developed into a kind of “global cottage industry” with hundreds of new assessment developers, producing thousands of different assessments. Each developer purporting its assessments to be scientifically accurate instruments - sold, resold and used by individuals and organizations of all kinds; including many of our largest institutions like Fortune 500s, major universities, world governments, and even military. Frighteningly, this “global cottage industry,” which produces data relied upon by millions, is entirely unregulated with nothing to ensure its consumers are receiving what they are being told and sold. There are zero requirements, safeguards, laws or regulations ensuring the consumer receives a scientifically accurate instrument - or even what the developers and sellers claim.

The Solution? Independent & Verifiable Testing by a Qualified Institution

The Assessment Standards Institute (ASI) provides our assessments with verifiably objective testing and reporting that meet standards set by the American Psychological Association (APA) and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). This battery of tests is both voluntary and verifiably transparent. Our goal? To ensure this assessment’s professional merit and scientific accuracy for you, the user. These reports are readily available upon request and include:

Construct Validity (APA Standards)

Construct validity is one of the most central concepts in psychology. It is the degree to which a test measures what it claims, or purports to be measuring. Researchers generally establish the construct validity of a measure by correlating it with a number of other measures and arguing from the pattern of correlations that the measure is associated with these variables in theoretically predictable ways.

External Data Reliability (APA Standards)

The term reliability in psychological research refers to the consistency of a testing or assessment method. In this case we are measuring the reliability or consistency of assessment measures over time. External Reliability measures the extent to which assessment measure varies from one use to another. In this analysis we are measuring reliability from the use of a test at one time as compared to another time. The comparison is using a mean variance measure referred to as the mean value ratio. The mean value ratio measures the external or time consistency of an assessment.

Disparate Impact (EEOC Guidelines)

Employers often use tests and other selection procedures to screen applicants for hire and employees for promotion. The use of tests and other selection procedures can be a very effective means of determining which applicants or employees are most qualified for a job. However, use of these tools can also violate the EEOC Guidelines if they disproportionately exclude people in a protected group by class, race, sex, or another covered basis. Importantly, the law does allow for selection procedures to select the best candidates based on job related requirements. If the selection procedure has a disparate impact based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, the employer is required to show that the selection procedure is job related and consistent with business necessity. If discrimination exists, the challenged policy or practice should therefore be associated with the skills needed to perform the job successfully.

Issue date: January 1, 2020. Renewal date: January 1, 2025.

